ligious or Political.—Thomas Jefferson.

THE ALLIANCE MISREPRESENTED.

When COL. POLK was elected President of the National Alliance, we apprehended that the Republicans would seek to injure his influence because he was a Southern man. We have a letter from Washington stating that such an attempt has been made. Our correspondent gives the following, which appeared in the Lawrence (Kansas) Journal-Tribune:

"A Washington correspondent says L. L. Polk, president of the Farmers' Alliance, is a North Carolina Democrat, his private secretary is a North Carolina Democrat, and B. H. Grady, president of the Alliance, is by no means a Republican. In other words, the leaders of the Alliance are Democrats, and they are earnestly endeavoring to deliver the Alliance, body and soul, to the Democratic party. See the attempt to kill off Senator Ingalls, the leading orator of the Republican party."

A reply to this is made by the Topeka (Kan.) Advocate, from which we make the following extract:

"The repetition of such rot, as the above, make Alliance men exceedingly weary. We do not know what have been the former party affiliations of our President, nor do we care, and it is safe to say that not a man that voted to place him in that position in the convention at St. Louis had a thought or a care upon this subject. Men of the North and men of the South met in that convention upon a common level and as associates on a common brotherhood. They met for business and not for perpetuation of national strife. They selected men on account of their peculiar fitness for the duties that would devolve upon them and not with regard to any ability they might possess to keep alive the hatred between the North and South."

We are told that there is an attempt to kill off the leading orator of the Republican party, Senator Ingalls.

In heaven's name are the idle men in the shops and in the mines, and the bankrupt farmers upon our broad prairies famishing for oratory? Fancy Ingalls satisfying the hunger of miners and their families with a brilliant oration upon the race question?"

On the other hand, there is an attempt to misrepresent the Alliance in the South by the publication of telegrams to the effect that it has sold out to the Republicans. The following was sent out from Washington by wire on the 19th inst., to the Atlanta Constitution:

FOUNDING THE DANGER SIGNAL.—[SPECIAL.]—A dicker between the Farmers' Alliance, the Knights of Labor and the Republican party.

This is the latest scheme on foot. That such a dicker is being attempted by Republicans here there is no doubt. This scheme is being discussed by leading Republicans of the House and Senate and high officers of the Alliance and Knights of Labor federation. The Republicans propose to find the money for the campaign, etc.

It is simply another scheme to split up the Democratic party, and it is understood that very high Alliancemen will be parties to it.

"You pay your money and take your choice."

Who is sending out such articles no one knows. It is known that the Republican politicians of the North-west used every effort in their power to prevent the consolidation of the Southern and Western orders in St. Louis last Fall. It would be like them to simultaneously seek to injure the Alliance in the North-west by one kind of statement, and in the South by another. Certainly both of these statements cannot be true, and we thank our correspondent for sending them so that we can lay them together before the readers of the CHRONICLE.

WHENEVER you see a lawyer, or an editor, or a farmer, or a merchant going around, either OPENLY or SECRETLY, advocating the election only of men of his calling to responsible positions, he is not a safe man. He is a demagogue, pure and simple, and you may know him just as surely as if he wore a label bearing these words:

"I AM A DEMAGOGUE."

We have seen such men in all callings, and we never knew one who was a wise man or a patriotic citizen. The best citizens look to a man's principles and convictions and not to his calling.

THE Durham Sun says that a Durham lady has written a unique selection of poems entitled "Easter Greetings and Home Songs." It says that the third poem is a very beautiful and lengthy one, dedicated "to Miss LESSIE M. SOUTHWORTH and the pupils of her school of music, on the late occasion of a piano recital by a pupil and a soiree musicale."

THE WORLD CONFESSES.

(New York World.)

The interview with ex-President GROVER CLEVELAND, published in the World of Thursday last, has excited considerable comment in the press throughout the country. Newspapers friendly to Mr. CLEVELAND have generally regarded it as a natural and justifiable outbreak of indignation after six or seven years of gross personal abuse by a malignant enemy. Others who are politically opposed to the ex-President, have spoken of it as undignified and unbecoming a man in his position. Many have remarked the vehemence of some of the expressions, and have doubted the correctness of the reports. After a thorough investigation we are satisfied that all Mr. CLEVELAND said for publication of a personal character was contained in the first fourteen lines of the remarks attributed to him, and that he did not use the coarse and intemperate personal expression accredited to him in a subsequent portion of the interview. The friends of Mr. CLEVELAND will scarcely need this assurance as they well know that such language is foreign to his temperament and his custom, and all will readily credit this explanation in view of the fact that the dignified yet modest manner in which he has borne himself on all occasions since his retirement from the presidency has won public admiration and is the best guarantee that he is incapable of putting himself on a level with his assailant.

SCHOOL DECLAMATIONS.

The CHRONICLE has long believed that the school teachers ought to give the boys extracts from orations upon current subjects for declamation, and that reading books ought to be made largely to give way to newspaper and magazine reading. Entertaining such views, we are glad to print the following extract from a private letter written by PROF. W. F. MARSHALL, Principal of Lenoir High School:

I noticed in a clipping that appeared in the CHRONICLE that MR. LONG's speech before the Press Association last summer has been declaimed on a North Carolina rostrum. That is my notion of the eternal fitness of such things. I had already made my selections for commencement from current oratory—selecting mainly from the CHRONICLE. The competitors for the declamation medal, May 23, will have these among their subjects:

1. Our Country's Progress and Perils; L. L. Polk, in Atlanta.

2. The Race Problem; H. W. Grady, in Boston.

3. The New Revolution; L. L. Polk, at banquet in Raleigh.

4. Our National Dangers and Our Hope of Deliverance; H. W. Grady, at the University of Virginia.

Demosthenes, Hayne, Webster—all laid in the shade. The boys can put some sense into speeches on current subjects of thought, and the speeches put some sense into the boys.

THE MONEY QUESTION.

The evils complained of arose from the unavoidable result of a stationary currency, co-existing with a rapid increase in the numbers and transactions of mankind, and these were only aggravated by every addition made to the energies and productive powers of society. * * * But if an increase in the numbers and industry of men co-exists with a diminution in the circulating medium by which their transactions are carried on, the most serious evils await society, and the whole relations of its different classes to each other will be speedily changed; and it is in that state of things that the saying proves true, "that the rich are every day growing richer, and the poor poorer."—Allison (History of Europe.)

HOME SPUN YARNS.

As showing how they travel in Western North Carolina we quote the following from a letter by REV. JNO. R. BROOKS, D. D., in the Raleigh Advocate:

"I traveled some 70 miles by rail, VIA Blacksburg and Spartanburg, S. C., to Tryon City, passing some 60 miles of the distance over South Carolina soil. In going from there, by way of my quarterly meetings on Antioch Mission and Kutherford circuit, to take the cars at Rutherford, I traveled in six different vehicles, (7 including a narrow 'dug out' in which I crossed Green River), and rode A MULE TEN MILES, SIX MILES OF THE DISTANCE CARRYING MY VALISE IN FRONT OF ME ON HIS WITHERS. My friends expressed more sympathy for the MULE than they did for ME."

Dr. Brooks weighs nearly 300 pounds. He does not state whether the mule survived.

THE Raleigh Christian Advocate is much improved in typographical appearance and is enlarged. It is a beautiful sheet and is chock full of choice religious literature. Its circulation is very large, and we are glad to know that it is steadily growing. It deserves 20,000 subscribers.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL.

Judge Womack opened court here Monday. He has given satisfaction and is pronounced learned, able and competent. His charge to the grand jury was plain and forcible, and of striking brevity.—Tarboro Banner.

President Crowell, of Trinity College, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address before the excellent school of Prof. W. F. Marshall at Lenoir on the 23rd of May. "Lenoir is exultant and we are all on tiptoe," writes a friend from that place.

The Greensboro Aldermen have granted the right of way for street railway to Julius A. Gray, J. W. Fry, S. S. Brown, and R. R. King.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Col. Paul R. Means is a candidate for Congress from the Sixth district. A News reporter met him to-day and asked: "Colonel, what truth is there in the report circulated on the streets last Saturday, that you are a candidate for the nomination for Congress in the 'shoestring' district?"

Col. Means replied that he is a candidate for the nomination, and that he has assurances that his chances are very good.

"What do you propose to do in case you fail to get the nomination?" was asked him.

"I propose," he replied, "to submit to the action of the convention, and, as I am now, and have always been, a Democrat, I shall support the nominee of my party heartily and with all my energy."

This is but the beginning of the campaign in this district, and the outlook is that it is going to prove an interesting and an exciting one.—Charlotte News.

Solicitor in the Fourth District.

[Smithfield Herald.]

It goes almost without saying that Johnston county is entitled to the nomination for solicitor this time. Wake has had two judges. Wayne had the solicitor four years, and when Johnston was in that district the solicitor and the judge were always chosen from some other county. These facts, supplemented by the fact that Johnston gives the majority that elects, would seem sufficient to support her claims to the place. It is understood that the county will press the nomination of Mr. E. W. POU, JR., for the place. He is progressive, earnest, up to the times, and well posted in the practice of the law. It would be difficult to find a man who would execute the duties of the office more efficiently than he.

If we can secure his nomination, his election will be almost certain, and in his election, his residence here would be an advantage of no small importance to the people of the county. Let our people not stand back. They are entitled to the place. We believe the other counties are disposed to concede it. We have the right man. If the district will nominate him and he fails to beat the radical candidate, then we will not ask for it again.

Rev. C. W. Byrd, of Fayetteville, will deliver the annual address of the Progressive Institute on May 16th. Mr. Byrd is a young man of talent and we bespeak for the people a literary treat.—Harnett Courier.
